Ridge View Academy's Automotive teacher, Jarrod Collins along with Eric Schott took 10 Student Athletes on a tour of Lincoln College of Technology in Denver, Colorado. They met with the High School Regional Representative who gave the students a full tour of the campus. Students were shown classrooms and Labs for the Automotive program, Diesel program, the Welding Department, Collision and Repair, Refinishing, Heating Ventilation and Air Conditioning. After the tour, representatives held a Q&A for the students. A few of the many things they discussed were the diploma programs for Automotive and Diesel along with the Associates Degree programs in the same fields. Some other topics brought up were Financial Aid opportunities and Scholarships.

The students all expressed their excitement for the opportunity to tour one of the finest automotive programs in Colorado. Through our Automotive program at Ridge View Academy, we are preparing students for careers in the automotive industries. By aligning our Automotive curriculum with Lincoln College of Technology, our students are able to continue on the path to become mechanics and technicians, helping improve the lives of youth on our campus.
